

Monday, May 17, 2021

Business Health Care Group, Centivo partner

The Business Health Care Group recently partnered with a New York health plan to offer coverage for its self-funded members starting next year.

Centivo, based in Buffalo, will offer a primary care-centered health plan that aims to provide employers an alternative to plans from traditional insurance carriers.

It's currently finalizing networks in the state with healthcare providers across eastern Wisconsin that aim to move toward payments based on value, rather than the number and types of services rendered.

"Employers in eastern Wisconsin are frustrated by the ever-increasing healthcare cost trend in our area, yet remain firmly committed to the health and well-being of their employees," Jeffrey Kluever, Business Health Care Group executive director, said in a statement. "With Centivo, our member employers can offer their employees high-quality care at lower and more predictable costs, while at the same time saving significantly on their overall healthcare spend."